#MeToo and #TimesUp are the social change movements of our time. They speak loudly and clearly to the need for the work of Connecticut Alliance to End Sexual Violence. As more and more individuals face their experiences, the need for our programs increases. We have the opportunity to serve more people healing from trauma, educate allies and bystanders, help to prevent sexual violence, and transform the culture.

Last year alone, The Alliance and our member programs served more than 7,200 child, adolescent, and adult victims of sexual assault and their loved ones. When victims of rape or sexual assault find the courage to seek help, they want to be supported by those who believe them and have the skills to help them heal. The Alliance's nine community-based sexual assault crisis programs support survivors of all ages throughout the state through trauma-informed and victim-centered services provided free of charge.

Our public policy efforts led to the passage of laws to prevent sexual violence on college campuses, to create guidelines for K-12 sexual assault prevention education programs in all Connecticut schools, and begin the identification and testing of more than 1,100 previously untested sexual assault evidence collection kits.

JOIN US. We can do so much more with your help. At our Annual Breakfast, we will lift up those who serve on the front lines. Your donation, sponsorship or volunteerism make a difference.
